Where are the Resources?

- Videos are currently on the Purdue Extension YouTube Channel
- Other material are available to our Extension Educators through Blackboard
- Some resources like publications will be available to the public

How We Are Using the Materials

- Increase Educators' understanding of property taxes and the county budget.
- Share individually with clientele.
- Use part of a module at the end of a county council/commissioners meeting or with civic groups.
- Mix and match resources to create a complete program for elected officials and communities.

Individualized County Programs

- Legislative Service Agency Annual County Property Tax Reports
- Video Tutorial “How to Read the County Property Tax Report
- Individualized analysis and presentation to counties or organizations by request.

“I looked at the property tax report a while back for Steuben County, but it made little sense to me with my very limited knowledge of tax lingo. Watching the video made it a bit less scary. One thing I did not notice before is in 2014 the Other Residential assessed values are larger than the homesteads in the county! That really puts the importance of tourism in perspective. This was a major talking point of my advisory committee this week since two tourist driven companies were represented at the meeting.” ~ Steuben Co.

Tax Policy on the Business and Distributional Scales

Indiana is pretty familiar with the Tax Foundation's Business Tax Climate Index. The index measures which state tax systems are the friendliest to businesses. We like their ranking because they like us. Indiana ranks 8th on their 2015 list. We hope that being so business-friendly will encourage business expansion in our state, leading to more jobs and higher pay.

We're less familiar with a different ranking of state taxes by the Institute on Taxation and Economic Policy (ITEP). They rank state tax systems based on their effects on the distribution of income. They don't like Indiana very much. We're 42nd on their 2015 list. According to ITEP, in every state lower income people pay a bigger share of their incomes to taxes than do higher income people. Indiana's tax system does that more than most.
